Dear Bahá'í Friend,

The Universal House of Justice has requested us to convey its gratitude for your email message of 25 February 2004 and its accompanying report of the successful teaching trip which members of the Black Men's Gathering recently took to Trinidad and Tobago.

The House of Justice was pleased to learn that the travelling teachers, including on this occasion the wives of several members, completed an intensive program of significant expansion and consolidation activities. The presentations of the Faith's teachings to His Excellency President George Maxwell Richards, to the Chief Secretary of the Tobago House of Assembly, Mr. Orville London, and to other prominent officials; the many media interviews; and the deep impact the visitors had on participants at numerous gatherings no doubt fostered the growth of the Faith on the islands. It is heartening to note that the services the Black Men's Gathering rendered and the efforts diligently exerted during this undertaking was distinguished by that beautiful and loving spirit of devotion associated with the Black Men's Gathering's travel-teaching projects.

You may be assured of the ardent prayers of the House of Justice at the Sacred Threshold that the group's devoted efforts in the path of service to Bahá'u'lláh may result in the achievement of ever-greater victories for the Cause of God.

With loving Bahá'í greetings,

Department of the Secretariat
